Motivation:

As a German citizen, third culture adult (having lived more than half my life outside of Germany) and mom of four children, I have been part of six different international schools up to date. I have a Master of Science in Geography and have worked as a conference and congress manager for the automotive industry before trailing the world with my husband. While doing so I have worked with different parent associations. In addition I am a co-author of a children's book "Slurping Soup and other Confusions- true stories and activities to help third culture children during transition" as well as a certified Parent Effectiveness Training Instructor - a communication model by Thomas Gordon.

Having seen how other schools organise and work I have a lot of ideas to add to EEB4. I would like to use this experience in helping the APEEE achieve the goals they have set themselves and to make EEB4 an even better school for our children.
